Opportunities are provided for learners to discuss their progression agreement during their weekly tutorial sessions during which this is incorporated into their ILP.

Support for students on HE course is via the Disabled Students' Allowance. Dyslexia is classed as a disability and in order to apply for the DSA, students with dyslexia must have an up to date psychological assessment to support their application. All our FE students with dyslexia who intend to progress to HE are provided with a full assessment, the cost of which is covered by ALS funding. Support is given with applying for the DSA and also with arranging Assessments of Study Needs at Leeds University. FE students with dyslexia progressing to HE will have been given the opportunity to apply for, or are in receipt of the DSA to support them on their HE course. This includes weekly study skills tutorials provided by our dyslexia support staff.

Students who have underdeveloped literacy skills but who do not have dyslexia, are unable to apply for the DSA. These students are able to access study skills tutorials which are funded by the college. Internal students who are progressing know about this support in advance but are also likely to be identified as requiring literacy support through our screening of all first year HE students. They will be given an appointment with study skills staff and will be encouraged during weekly tutorial sessions to attend study skills tutorials. All course teams are made aware through staff induction of the support available and information on how to access academic support is on the student intranet. Information about particular needs of a learner are shared between representatives through course team meetings/tutorial sessions/ parents evenings.

See Document Procedures for Supporting Students with Specific Learning Difficulties

Curriculum Planning and Development Activities

Changes or modifications to the course/programme with respect to progression will be shared between representatives prior to the annual Internal Open Days in November and during staff development weeks.

Modification or Termination of the Progression Agreement

Bi annual reviews will provide the opportunity for modification or termination of the progression agreement. Any changes will be communicated to the students via the website and via group and individual tutorials.

Review of the Progression Agreement

Bi-annual reviews will be completed in March and July and the outcomes of the reviews will be recorded and incorporated into the college's annual course/programme evaluation processes.
